STUDENT SUSPENSION AND EXPULSION

Background

The Division believes that the maintenance of an atmosphere conducive to learning and to harmonious interpersonal relationships is essential to the achievement of the purposes of its schools. Accordingly, certain behaviour, which is deemed seriously detrimental to such an atmosphere, may be cause for the removal of a student from a school bus, a class, a school function/activity or from school.

To ensure a satisfactory climate for learning, school rules and regulations must be observed by students and teachers must be empowered to enforce those rules and regulations. Students who do not conform to the student code of conduct may negatively affect the school’s learning environment and this behaviour cannot be accepted.

The suspension and expulsion of a student is a very serious matter and should only be taken when other measures have proven to be ineffective or when the seriousness of the offence warrants such action.

Section 31 of the Education Act identifies expectations for student conduct and sections 36 and 37 deal with student suspensions and expulsions.
